M'GRAW'S TEAM OUTPLAYS CHICAGO

Loose Fielding, Coupled With Batting Rally in Eighth, Gives Westerners Two Runs-Rube Marquard Goes Entire Route for New York. Evers Is Benched.

New York, August 23.—The Giants took the third straight from the Cubs to-day, 3 to 2, and are now thirteen and a half games in front of the Philifics, their nearest competitor. While the game was not so easy as the first two of this series, the Giants outplayed their opponents, and the result should never have been in doubt.

In the eighth, however, a batting rally by the visitors, coupled with some loose fleiding, allowed two runs to come over, and for a time a tie-up was threatened. Rube Marquard twirled for the Giants, being opposed by Smith. Evers was benched in the fifth for kicking on a decision by Umpire Byron. The score:

DODGERS TAKE LAST

Brooklyn, N. Y., August 23.—The Dodgers won to-day's game from the Reds, 5 to 2, cinching the contest in the first inning. Brooklyn's five runs came over in the initial frame as a result of a single, a double, two triples and two passes. Suggs was yanked and Packard took his place. The locals did not score again. Cincinnati scored one in the first, when Bescher doubled and Bates singled. Reulbach held them safe from then to the eighth, when another run came in. The ex-Cub was in great form after the first inning, and though nine hits were tallled off his delivery he kept them scattered. The score:

BRAVES ADD ANOTHER

Boston, August 23—The Braves made it three in a row from the Cardinals it to-day by slamming Perritt out of the box by hard hitting. The score was 8 to 4. Perdue started to pitch for the locals, but was hit hard, and gave way to Tyler, who was invincible. The scoring was all done in the early part to the game, both teams hammering the ball hard in the opening innings. Harmon was touched up quite freely. (Continued on Sixth Page.)

Johnson, always a cool, cal-culating piece of tennis machinery, never seemed to doubt the outcome of the match, despite the unconcealed ad-miration at every turn for his oppo-

the match, despite the unconcealed admiration at every turn for his opponent's game.

Strachan ripped off some shots that had the earmarks of 100 miles an hour, but they came back covered with twists and turns that lifted the ball only a foot from the ground. Then a ground stroke was necessary, and, like McLoughlin, Strachan is not fond of these. Johnson, through his victory, looms up as a dangerous man in the finals, for on Monday he faces Maurice E. McLoughlin. Tennis followers remember the gruelling five-set match last year

Strachas whipped back the ball with cannon-like speed, but very often drove into the net or out of bounds. He tried Even after Johnson had taken the second set 7-5, Strachan could not realize that those twists were going to put him out of the series, for he drove victously at his man throughout the third set and until he was behind four games to one. John-son reveled in the very medicine he was handing out, and when he took the third set, Strachan knew he had made third set, Strachan knew he had made an error The men rested fifteen minutes, and during the period Strachan was told by his Western colleagues to take a stand at the net. When the fourth and last set started he tried it again, but found the going too soft for speedy dashes up the court, and he found that Johason was the one that got the coveted position.

Quickly the latter ran up game after game until he had four straight; that game until he had four straight; just as in the previous set none of them went to deuce. Then each man won a game and Strachan made his final stand of three straight games. Johnson was just waiting for the streak of bril-liancy to wear itself out, and then he won the necessary game without the loss of a point. He had outplayed, loss of a point. He had outplayed, outserved and outguessed his youthful opponent, and the enormous crowd gave him a royal send-off.

Johnson scored 116 points to 95 and tallied 20 games to 14. In love games Johnson lost only one and Strachan

In the Williams-Washburn match, the expected happened when the for-mer triumphed in three straight sets. Williams himself said that he had neve played better tennis in his life than he did against the young Harvard student, who claims Bridgeport as his home, but lives in New York most of the time.

"I was not in better or more accurate shape than this morning."

Washburn was steady, but Williams too brilliant. The latter meets Niles for a chance to get in the final round, and Johnson tackles Maurice E. McLoughlin. The finest tennis of the year should result.

Betting on the two matches is already at fever heat. Williams is a pronounced favorite over Niles, and McLoughlin so far is held at 5 to 3, but Johnson support is expected to but Johnson support is expected to grow over Sunday, after the showing e made to-day.

The fact that McLoughlin's game is

While realizing that the death knell be technically suspended. At any rate, to all pennant chances was sounded yesterday, when Petersburg took both games, both Secretary Bradley and Manager Griffin will start building right now for next season. Moreover, they want players now, in order to maintain the hold on second place. Said Secretary Bradley last night:

"If anybody can tell me where we can get pitchers, regardless of cost, we will go after them. It isn't a question of expense. It's a question of being able to get the right men We are trying, trying every minute of the time to land somebody. We are grabbing at every straw, in the hope that some good luck may come our

YANKS AND TIGERS DIVIDE

Young Davis is playing a great fielding game for Richmond, and though the youngster is slumping along with the youngster is slumping along with the vets, there is one thing about him he doesn't hit at bad ones. He made a great stop in the third inning of the second game yesterday on Brennegan's ground ball. It looked like a hit, but Chick grabbed it in time to make the throw to Dobson.

Frank Dobson, considering that he is by no means in condition, played a splendid game at first.

Pittsburgh went into third place yesterday, topping the Cubs. Wonder who Charlie Murphy will manage next seaton.

The doesn't hit at bad ones. He made a great stop in the third off sweary band of Yanks left for Cleveland to-night, after splitting a double bill with the Tigers. Jennings's crew took the first, 8 to 1, and lost the second, 4 to 2.

In the first Dubuc proved that he is still an enigma to the cellar denizens. He allowed them but five very much scattered hits and struck out five. The Tigers batted Fisher hard throughout, piling up thirteen hits.

In the second Caldwell outpitched both Lake and Hall. The Yankees talled twice in the second and added two more in the third off successive hits by Maisel, Cook, Cree and Zeider. Both of the first two showed clever base running during the game. The continued on Sixin Page.)
